Seventh Miner Blast Victim

Government, Company Open Probe
Into Cause of Glace Bay Disaster

GLACE BAY, N.S., July 11 (CP) — A seventh miner died Thursday night as government and company officials began an investigation into the second worst disaster to hit this coal-mining town in 49 years.

Even as Herbert Desmond, 49, lay dying in hospital here, two other Nova Scotia miners were killed in common accidents that make mining man's most hazardous occupation.

ONLY WITNESS

Desmond was the only man who could have told exactly what happened Wednesday when his six companions were killed in an explosion in No. 20 colliery here.

Deadly "fire damp," the miner's greatest fear, is believed to have blasted the chamber some three miles under the Atlantic.

Companies and union officials declined to say what caused the explosion but rescue workers indicated that a defective lamp carried by one of the victims ignited an accumulation of the gas.

Number 20 was closed 14 years ago for a 13-month safety program.

Donald MacLellan brought Desmond to safety shortly after the blast. He was working nearby and groped his way into the explosion area with a moistened cloth over his face.

Several times the gas forced him back before he located the moaning man in the flickering light.

There will be a funeral instead of a wedding at the Blake home Saturday. His daughter, Elsie, arrived home from Toronto shortly before the tragedy. He was to have given her in marriage.

There is a reconstruction of events leading up to the explosion, as seen by rescue workers: Blake, suspecting gas in the area, sent for Harris to investigate. Harris carried a "glanny" or safety lamp whose light goes out when gas is present. It was found near the scene of the explosion, "blasted to smithereens."

Quiet mourning pervades the town of 28,000 and surrounding areas.

Premier Byron Johnson today found himself in the position where he may not be able to resign next week as he had planned, to hand over the reins of government to the Social Credit party.

One of the main factors was a reverse switch in the vote counting in Point Grey riding which put A. R. MacDougall, Prog. Cons., back in as a member and put the Social Credit party's potential strength at 19 members, as compared to 18 for the C.C.F.

Since there are bound to be recounts in two, and possibly three, of the close ridings, the Premier is not yet able to recommend who should form the new government.

Thursday, when Social Credit candidate Thomas Bate took the second count lead in Point Grey's A ballot as C.C.F. votes were transferred, it appeared the Socreds were certain to get the most seats. Premier Johnson, according to reliable informants, proposed to hand over the government to them early next week.

Babs Davies Holds Lead In B.C. Golf

Defending champion Babs Davies of Vancouver held a three-hole lead over Mrs. Peggy Harris of Oak Bay at the halfway mark of today's 36-hole final for the British Columbia Women's Close golf championship at Colwood Golf Club.

Mrs. Harris took the lead on the first hole with an eagle three, but lost it when Miss Davies won the third and fifth and sixth to go two up. Mrs. Harris won the seventh with a par three, the eighth was halved in regulation fours, Miss Davies in regulation fours, Miss Davies in regulation fours, Miss Davies in regulation fours.

Mrs. Harris was four down after losing the 15th but won the 18th to reduce the deficit.

Bob Taft found out today what happens when a steam-roller backs up.

At that, you never heard Ike say: "I'd rather be Dwight than President."

And does anybody in the house wonder now why they call Chicago "the Windy City?"

Minnesota Swings Vote To Stampede Delegates

CHICAGO, July 11 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today won the Republican presidential nomination.

In a dramatic climax to a fight with Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, Eisenhower crashed through to the Republican accolade on the first ballot.

On the roll call, Eisenhower first received 595 votes to 502 for Taft. But before the vote could be announced, Minnesota threw to the General 19 votes it had first given to former Governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota.

That put Eisenhower across with 614 votes. It took 604 to nominate.

Texas and other states which had split their votes then began jumping. It was a landslide in the end.

The official figures:

Total 1,296 votes: General Eisenhower 845; Gen. Douglas MacArthur 4; Senator Robert Taft 280; Governor Earl Warren of California 77.

And this feuding, wrangling, 25th Republican National Convention pulled itself together into a vociferous show of unity behind the General with a roaring demonstration around and around the big convention hall hard by the stockyards.

Representative B. Carroll Reice, southern campaign manager for Taft, said: "Of course, I'm going to support the nominee but I feel Eisenhower's managers should apologize to Senator Taft for their conspiracy to stigmatize him."

The convention floor was in an uproar at that point as state after state rushed to toss in votes on the Eisenhower bandwagon.

Eisenhower himself was not in the hall. As custom dictates, he had waited at his hotel while the convention's rank and file decided who should lead their effort this year to break 20 years of Democratic national rule.

The balloting capped a week of maneuvering in which Eisenhower's strategists won the opening skirmishes and exploited them to take the grand prize.

The turning point had its beginnings in the pre-convention preliminaries of last week.

The long, ugly arguments over delegate contests—in which the words "steal," "thief" and even stronger were commonplace—had their effect on many delegates. If not on the Republican National Committee.

This was made evident at the opening day of the convention—last Monday.

Taft came to Chicago confident and riding high. Through months of long, hard campaigning—mile after mile up and down and across the country—he was far out in front of Eisenhower in pledged delegates.

But on the opening day, the Eisenhower forces—with support from backers of candidates Governor Earl Warren of California and Stassen—whipped the Taft men 658 to 548 in a test vote on a rule regarding voting by contested Taft delegates from the south.

It was a licking from which Taft never recovered.

Out of that breach in his strategic lines trickled delegates from Louisiana, Texas and Georgia he had counted on; it cost him, too, many votes among uncommitted delegates who concluded from this initial muscle-flexing that Ike would come home the winner.

For Eisenhower, the Republican party's tap to its leadership is another big moment of a packed decade in the life of a one-time Kansas farm boy, now reached 61.

Little more than 19 years ago, as the march of Second World War was sweeping toward the U.S., Ike was an army lieutenant-colonel, unknown nationally.

The swift years since have seen him direct the Allied drive that defeated Germany and Italy, head Columbia University, and finally command the armies being built in partnership with European Allies to defend against the threat of Communist aggression.

He gave up that command and returned home only last June for a fast-moving campaign that finally overtook Taft.

For Taft, the defeat was a bitter end to his third real try for the nomination.

Now 62, he has said he would not try again—and so with this decision here his dream of following his father, President William Howard Taft, to the White House is destroyed.

Bob Taft was already a power in the Senate when Eisenhower was just one of many younger officers in the army.

Taft's name went as a favorite son before the 1936 Republican convention.

He sought the nomination in 1940, and was licked to the roaring calls of "We Want Willie."

In 1944, he stepped aside so another Ohioan, John W. Bricker, could have his chance. Bricker was beaten by Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York but took second place on the ticket.

The Republicans went down to defeat.

Taft made another effort for the nomination four years ago. Dewey whipped him.

And it was Dewey, sitting in the strategy councils of Eisenhower backers, who had much to do with Eisenhower's final victory.

For the Taft forces, Dewey was the villain of this whole drama.

Repeated Boos for Dewey

Their feeling toward him welled up in repeated boos when his name was mentioned in this hall.

It was demonstrated in handbills attacking Dewey as a man who twice took the Republicans to defeat and was now pulling the strings for Eisenhower.

One of Eisenhower's first tasks as the nominee will be to try to patch things up with the Taft forces.

The bitterness ran deep. But within minutes after his convention victory, Eisenhower called on Taft at the Ohio senator's downtown hotel.

Even in the nominating speeches, as this convention moved to its climax, there were repeated warnings from Republican stalwarts that the Republican nations must close ranks if they hope to win in November.

Nixon May Be G.O.P. Veep

CHICAGO, July 11 (AP) — Representative Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania told reporters today he regards Senator Richard Nixon of California as the "top prospect" for the Republican vice-presidential nomination.

Scott has been a leading figure in the handling of strategy for General Eisenhower.

On the convention floor, Governor Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, also one of Eisenhower's strategists, was asked by reporters who might get the second spot on the ticket.

"I honestly do not know he told them."

"How about Taft?"

"Might," he replied.

Scott said Senator William F. Knowland of California, and Representative Walter Judd of Minnesota are also being considered.

Traditionally, a presidential candidate is allowed to choose the man he wants to run with him.

Dredging of Inner Harbor To Start Soon

A $200,000 program to dredge Victoria's inner harbor from Johnson Street Bridge to Little Rock Island, in Selkirk Waters, will start soon.

The final release from waterfront property owners was forwarded to Ottawa three weeks ago, tenders for the work have been filed—all within the $200,000 figure allowed in federal estimates—and final approval from the Dominion government is expected shortly.

Tenders have not been released, but it is known that a Victoria firm has tendered the lowest bid, and has the men and equipment ready to go to work at once.

WIDE CHANNELS

A. Webster, district engineer, department of public works, says he can see no reason why work should not start very soon. He reports that a 20-foot channel will be dredged from Johnson bridge to Pt. Ellice bridge. Above Pt. Ellice, a 15-foot channel will be dredged to Selkirk Waters.

No work is planned in the turning basin, which was dredged to 23 feet last year.

49 Japanese Die in Deluge

TOKYO, July 11 (AP) — The worst rainstorms in 40 years killed 49 persons and injured 67 Thursday night and today in the densely-populated Osaka area, provincial police reported today.

Twenty-two others were missing.

The region is the industrial heart of Japan. It takes in Osaka, Kyoto, Nara and Kobe. The more southerly cities of Kure and Hiroshima were also hit.

Property losses were placed at 305 houses destroyed, and 75,105 flooded. Most deaths and injuries were caused by landslides and drownings.

Osaka, the country's second-largest city, reported 13 of the deaths, 40 injuries and eight missing. Hiroshima had 12 killed amid the wreckage of flimsy new housing.

At least 109 landslides were reported.

CLAIM TREASON

M.P.'s Urge Dismissal Of Red Dean

LONDON, July 11 (AP). — A suggestion that the Church of England's "Red Dean" be tried for treason came today as more angry British lawmakers demanded his ouster for accusing the United States of waging germ warfare in China.

Irene Ward, Conservative member of Parliament, charged the 78-year-old Dean of Canterbury, Dr. Hewlett Johnson, is "spreading enemy propaganda." She called on the government to "consider" prosecuting him.

As Miss Ward put her motion before the House of Commons, other members lined up behind less-dramatic suggestions that means be found to remove the dean from his church office.

Thirty-eight M.P.'s have signed a petition demanding the dean's dismissal. Lord Ammon, a Socialist, says he will ask the government Monday in the House of Lords whether legal action can be taken against the dean.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

During the next few weeks anywhere from 1,500 to 2,000 people, most of them youngsters, will pay from $7 to $15 a week for the joys of supervised camping at sites from here to Nanaimo. What'll they get for it, besides homesickness?

Ian Anderson, "Y" Thunderbird camp director, has a few answers. He might sound a little like a publicity man for the Y's Thunderbird Camp, only the camp has more applicants than it can handle this year.

In the first place, Ian says, only a minority of the campers will be homesick. Homesickness will last maybe two hours, or the whole week of camp, depending on the kid and how hard the family works to make him homesick.

A good, doting mother, it appears, can strike a high average in homesickness. Enough letters telling a child how much he's missed, how the dog mourns for him in his absence, and how worried the family is while he's away, can work wonders in melancholia on the boy at camp. Try it on the kid when camp starts and chances are his tears will flow like wine when the other guys aren't looking.

The cure for homesickness, Ian claims, is activity. Fill the youngster's time, keep him on the go, have the counselor or leader give him a little more attention than usual, and he'll snap out of his despondency nine times out of 10.

Okay, so he doesn't get homesick—or not much. What does he get?

What He Gets

He learns new skills, Ian says. If he could swim a bit when he started, chances are he'll swim better when he's finished. He may learn a new game or two. He'll become a little more competent in a boat. He'll know more about hiking and crafts and—if he's a normal kid—he'll get something you can't lay your finger on from the camp fire sessions and the devotional periods.

The program, according to the experts, is only incidental to the main purpose of the camp. The activities are only means to the end. The objective is experience in group living—which sounds a little socially scientific, but isn't stuffy. The kid who is happy in camp has learned something in group living—and the learning hasn't been a pampering process, though it's 99 per cent effective.

He has to do his share of dishwashing, cleaning camp, peeling spuds and making his own bed. At Thunderbird, he can't buy popularity. Rations at the canteen limit him to one bottle of pop and one chocolate bar a day, though he can spend his purchasing credits on flashlight-batteries, simple fishing equipment and the like. He hasn't any money jingling in his pocket, if he has a pocket. His funds are turned over to the canteen and he draws against his credits. That way, the purchasing can be supervised.

That's at Thunderbird. Some other camps operate on similar lines. But there's any amount of variety. Take the Boy Scouts, they go in for camp craft in all its ruggedness—making their own shelters, constructing their own beds, cooking their own meals, and learning the self-sufficiency business from the ground up.

The "Y" camp puts boys into cabins, has a cook, a camp nurse, paid staff and voluntary leaders—and counselors. The kids still have to do their share of work in keeping the cabins and themselves clean, but there's a lot of time for recreation in the form of group activities and there's a fair amount of equipment to help them enjoy themselves.

All Kinds

Then there are the church groups which have special camps, geared largely to religious study and Bible reading, with recreation as a pleasant incidental. And there are social agency camps, which provide fresh air holidays for those who take them.

A youngster's fit material for camping, Ian says, when he's eight or nine. Before that he's not usually developed enough emotionally to get much out of it, or to learn lessons in group living.

Preparations by the family for the kid going to camp are relatively simple. He should have ordinary summer play clothing and a tooth brush. But, more important, he should have the right attitude. "The parent can help to give him that as a protection against homesickness. On the other hand, the parent can make him homesick with a few letters and the wrong advice. It may be a bit flattering to the mother to know that, but it's poor business for the kid."

LUNG-POWER DERBY

Taft Backers Prove Noisiest

BY HELMAN MORIN

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, July 11 (AP).—The great lung-power derby, a strange rite of Americans, howled itself into exhaustion in the wee hours this morning, having named five men as choices for president of the United States.

For nearly eight hours, Thursday night and today, five bands of Republicans made as much noise as they could. They used most of the known instruments for disturbing the peace—cowbells, whistles, sirens, a pipe organ, tin and wooden rattles and brass bands.

History will never be able to record which group racked up the highest score in hoarse throats.

Nor could you say which of the five put on the best mobscene in the aisles, waving placards, flipping flying saucers and colored streamers into the air, releasing balloons, capering, cavorting and having, generally, a high old time.

FROM ALL WALKS

There were governors, senators, congressmen and worthy citizens, men of standing, in each of the demonstrations. They wore strange headresses, Hawaiian leis, and straw hats with slogans plastered across the top. They hoisted pretty, shrieking girls on their shoulders.

Of the five spectacles—they are carefully arranged by vice-presidents in charge of spontaneous demonstrations—there was something to be said for each.

Those that launched Senator Taft of Ohio and General Eisenhower lasted longest and made the most noise.

But the blue-and-gold riot on behalf of Governor Earl Warren of California was somehow warmer and sweeter.

Moreover, when electricians threw a powder-blast-light-on-Mrs. Warren and the Warrens' three blonde, photogenic daughters—Virginia, Nina and Dorothy—everybody joined in the acclamation.

Oddly enough, there was no demonstration when ex-Governor Harold Stassen was named.

Stassen people had an explanation for such quiet. They said

200 Stassen fans, armed with noisemakers and passes to the convention, were denied admission. When they finally got in it was too late.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's partisans, fewer in number but second to none in energy, were fifth and last on the scene. They paraded carrying giant photographs of MacArthur, and sang "Old Soldiers Never Die."

Western Powers Give Reds Big Four Meeting Proposal

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP).—The Western powers have submitted to Russia a Big-Four meeting proposal which United States officials believe will test the sincerity of Moscow's demands for a united Germany.

The proposal, delivered Thursday, calls for a meeting limited to the specific purpose of creating an impartial commission to determine whether free elections can be held throughout divided Germany.

This was the one new feature in identical notes from Britain, the U.S. and France which represented the sixth round in a wordy diplomatic exchange going on since last March.

Moscow called then for an urgent meeting of the occupation powers to take up again the broad question of making peace with a unified Germany, a move Western diplomats at the time interpreted as mere propaganda.

In the new proposals the West laid down once more the conditions that Russia must agree in advance that any general peace settlement be based first upon

Psychology Used In Naming Home

ESCAPE EFFORT NEARLY FATAL TO CONVICTS

McALESTER, Okla., July 11.—Three convicts almost suffocated Thursday when they sealed themselves in soap barrels in an attempt to escape from the Oklahoma State Penitentiary.

They stayed in the barrels nearly two hours while a trucker jostled them around the prison grounds picking up canned goods for a shipment to the outside.

Finally, one cut a hole in the side of his barrel to get some air. A guard noticed his hair showing through and discovered the escape attempt.

Steelmen 'Mum' On New Strike Talk

PITTSBURGH, July 11 (AP).—Top-level secret negotiations in the United States steel strike are under way today in this steel capital.

After their first meeting yesterday, spokesmen for both industry and United Steelworkers (C.I.O.) were tight-lipped. A union source said a second meeting would be held at an unspecified time and place today.

There is every indication that most of the issues of the strike, now in its 40th day, were discussed at least generally at the first session.

Obviously the meeting was called to talk over the industry's request to get iron-ore production moving again. But a union spokesman, when asked if other issues were taken up, smiled, "you may assume that."

Philip Murray, president of the C.I.O. and the steelworkers, and general counsel Arthur Goldberg head the union team. Among industry leaders present were vice-president John A. Stephens of U.S. Steel; vice-president Joseph Larkin of Bethlehem Steel Corp.; and Ben F. Morrell, chairman of the boards of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp.

Meanwhile, in Washington, price administrator Ellis Arnall indicates the government will answer in several days the latest demand for higher prices from the steel industry.

The Weirton Steel Company at Weirton, W.Va., filed notice July 1 for a $5.50-a-ton ceiling increase on its product. Unless the Office of Price Administration objects the boost will go into effect July 21.

Weirton has not been shut down by the strike.

Industry sources are worried over possible shutdowns next winter because of a shortage of iron ore. About 23,000 iron-ore miners quit in sympathy when the steelworkers struck June 2 on its product. Unless the Office of Price Administration objects the boost will go into effect July 21.

Automotive News, a trade journal in Detroit, says auto manufacturing this week will be the lowest in 2½ years because of the steel shortage.

OAK BAY GARDEN WATERING

Residents have co-operated to a great extent by voluntarily restricting their watering to three days a week plus Sundays. (Preferably odd numbered houses Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays and even numbered houses Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.)

To avoid compulsory restrictions close observance of the above is strongly requested. Fixed sprinkling systems are such heavy users of water that we now ask owners of same to avoid using them between the hours of 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9.30 p.m. Sunday included. These are the heavy draw-off periods.

DIED—In Smith Falls, Ont., Glen Davison, 36, a Canadian Pacific railway yardman from Unity, Sask., was killed early today when crushed between a baggage car and an engine in the C.P.R. yards.

He had been employed at this eastern Ontario railway junction for the last 12 years. The body will be sent to Unity for burial.

REUNION — In Montreal a mother and her son were reunited in a railway station here Thursday night for the first time in 35 years.

Mrs. Mabel Perkins of Montreal led a welcoming family delegation to greet her second eldest son, James, a former member of the British West Indies legislative council, who came to Montreal for a week's visit.

VISIT—In Chatham, Eng., the $3,000-ton cruiser Quebec, Canada's largest and most modern training ship, docks this afternoon for a 10-day visit.

Most of her company of 700 are between 18 and 20 years old and making their first trip abroad. She will later visit other European ports.

NAMED—In Edmonton R.C.A.F. officials said Thursday night the pilot of the Mustang fighter bomber which crashed in the Yukon earlier today was Donald John Urquhart, 27, of Winnipeg.

Urquhart, a veteran of the Second Great War, was an employee of the Canadian Westinghouse Company at Winnipeg. His mother, Mrs. E. M. Urquhart, lives at Salmon Arm, B.C.

HAPPY—In London Gen. Matthew Ridgway, Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, left London by air for his Paris headquarters today after a 48-hour visit to Britain.

The general spent last evening discussing with Prime Minister Churchill problems related to the setting up of a supreme command in the Mediterranean.

"It was a very happy meeting," an army spokesman commented.

The Supreme Commander and his wife drove to London airport escorted by police. Special reinforcements were on duty to prevent any further Communist demonstrations. But there was no repetition of the scene at the general's arrival on Wednesday, when demonstrators scuffled with police and showered "Ridgway go home" leaflets around the airport.

NO NEWS FROM TRUCE PARLEY

MUNSAN, Korea, July 11 (AP)—Negotiators held their eighth secret session today in a futile effort to agree on a Korean truce.

No information was released on what progress, if any, was made during the 26-minute meeting. Another session was set for 11 a.m. Saturday.

United Nations and Communist delegates agreed on a news blackout eight days ago in an effort to resolve the remaining issue blocking an armistice—prisoner exchange.

U.N. Aircraft Wreak Damage

Pyongyang Reduced to Rubble, Flames As Allies Launch Terrific Air Blast

By STAN CARTER

SEOUL, Korea, July 11 (AP)—United Nations aircraft from five countries today turned the North Korean capital of Pyongyang into flames and rubble in one of the most devastating air raids of the Korean war.

Planes from every Allied fighter-bomber squadron based in Korea and from the United States carriers Princeton and Bonhomme Richard and the British carrier Ocean made three separate attacks on Pyongyang. They were aided by U.S. marine-land-based planes, and Australian, South African and South Korean fighter-bombers attached to the U.S. Fifth Air Force.

FACTORIES HIT

The planes destroyed or damaged the communications headquarters for the North Korean and Chinese Communist armies, three munitions factories, two supply and storage centres, a factory where telephones and other communications equipment were made, five other industrial factories, a round house and railroad repair yards, the motor pool and two vehicle repair shops, a Communist headquarters and troop area, and a troop replacement centre.

I watched the Pyongyang raid from a T-33 jet reconnaissance plane piloted by Maj. James F. Crutchfield of Tacoma, Wash. Black smoke spiralled thousands of feet into the air. When F-80 Shooting Star jets dropped their bombs on a munitions factory, secondary explosions ripped across the area like a string of firecrackers. A ball of fire billowed up 9,000 feet. There was a lot of flak over Pyongyang, thrown up by

30 Gaullist Members Form New Party

PARIS, July 11 (Reuters).—A group of 30 rebel Gaullist deputies in the National Assembly today forged a new break-away parliamentary party called "the independent group for republican and social action."

Altogether 32 deputies have resigned from Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Rassemblement Du Peuple Français. But two announced they will sit as independent members.

Gaullist strength in the national assembly has slumped to 86 deputies from the 118 elected at the last general elections in June, 1951.

After being the strongest single party in the National Assembly, the Gaullists now rank behind the Socialists (106 deputies), Communists (100), Moderate Conservatives (100) and Popular Republicans (88).

About 13 of the 56 Gaullist members of the Council of the Republic, the upper house, are expected to join forces with the rebels in the National Assembly.

A statement issued by the organizers of the new party said they are not planning to abandon the program and ideas which they put forward to their electors last year.

Head of the new party is Edmond Barrachin, a leading Paris deputy.

GUILTY BUT INNOCENT

VANCOUVER (CP).—Police picked up two culprits after John Smedman complained that two men tried to sell him narcotics. The culprits explained they were stony broke and hoped to make $5 by peddling a capsule of asthma remedy as dope. They promised to make no more attempts at dope-pushing, fake or otherwise.

THREAT TO JET PRODUCTION EASED WITH WAGE AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—Defense officials breathed easier today following agreement between the North American Aviation Co. and the United Automobile Workers (U.A.W.), on a plan to end a wage dispute which threatened to halt production of all F-86 Sabre jets—nemesis of the Russian Mig 15.

Top air force officials said even a one-day shutdown of the company's 17 aircraft plants in California and Columbus, Ohio, would be catastrophic.

The two sides late Thursday agreed to submit their dispute to a three-man fact-finding board whose recommendation will be binding.

Lady Alexander Refutes She Said Canadians Bow to Money

LONDON, July 11 (CP)—other . . . I think the very repetition of its defeat its own ends. There is democracy over titles and names, but not so much over dollars.

"There, most definitely, I noticed a bending of the knee toward the very wealthy."

Lady Alexander's reply was quoted by the News Chronicle as follows:

"Well, you know all the talk about democracy over there—how we are all as good as each other . . . I don't think that and I wouldn't say that," the wife of Britain's defense minister said in a telephone interview from her home near Woking, Surrey.

Lady Alexander was commenting on a women's page feature story published Thursday in the News Chronicle. The story dealt principally with the Alexander children, Rose, Shane and Brian. At the end, News Chronicle reporter Martha Blount asked Lady Alexander how "English accents and great names" go down in Canada.

Lady Alexander's reply was quoted by the News Chronicle as follows:

"Well, you know all the talk about democracy over there—how we are all as good as each other . . . I don't think that and I wouldn't say that," the wife of Britain's defense minister said in a telephone interview from her home near Woking, Surrey.

Prices Rise Again

A NEW RISE IN THE CANADIAN cost-of-living after several months of steady decline shows that the problem of inflation is by no means ended. Nor can it end so long as wages rise and hence the cost of goods.

At the very moment when the inflationary process seemed to be going into reverse, when the cost of living was definitely down and economists were beginning to worry about deflation, labor in most parts of America launched the present devastating wage disputes which, among other things, have produced paralysis in the American steel industry and dealt a body blow to the economy of British Columbia. Even if these major American and Canadian strikes are settled without a large increase in production costs, other struggles lie ahead. The demands of the railway unions in Canada, for example, will certainly push up freight rates, if they succeed, and freight rates will affect literally every kind of goods.

Thus two economic forces are working against each other. On the one hand, abundant supplies in most lines tend to hold prices down by the competition of the market. If that were the only factor involved we could look for falling or, at least, stable prices. But on the other hand, prices cannot fall in those industries where costs are pushed up by the major cost of wages. Where industries are compelled to pay higher costs and yet cannot raise prices in a competitive market they will simply reduce their operations and their employment, to everybody's loss.

In the long term, therefore, and looking beyond the next half year or so, the largest danger of the inflationary process is the resulting process of deflation when goods prices themselves out of the market. The London Economist, the ablest publication in its field, predicts a deflation in America next year when these two contrary factors of higher costs and reduced demand have run their course.

In the meantime, the American government is doing everything possible to maintain existing boom conditions until the November election. Good times favor a party in office. The Democratic administration simply cannot afford any readjustments in the economy before the polls open.

Hence the deflationary policy inaugurated 18 months ago has been largely suspended. The government is tacitly supporting higher wages in the strike-bound steel industry. It has made credit easier again, it is running a huge deficit in its own treasury and even the superficial system of legal price controls, which never had much effect but were at least a symbol of deflation have been practically repealed by Congress.

All this is short-run policy designed mainly to win the election. The day of reckoning will come later. The more the North American economy is distorted by excessive production costs now the more painful the reckoning will be.

The Greedy Partner

MR. RODNEY ADAMSON, A thoughtful Conservative member of Parliament, has been studying the effects of taxes on the profits of business. They are larger than most people realize.

Mr. Adamson took the annual report of 15 leading Canadian corporations and calculated how much of their profits went to the shareholders and how much to the state. He shows that in all but two cases, the state took far more than the shareholder. For every dollar paid out in dividends, the corporations paid the following amounts in taxes:

Aluminum Ltd.	$2.55
Asbestos Corp.	1.28
Atlatibi Power and Paper	3.24
Fraser Companies	3.76
Great Lakes Paper	2.40
Dominion Tar and Chemical	2.40
Imperial Oil Ltd.	2.90
Canadian Industries Ltd.	1.80
International Nickel Co.	1.20
Noranda Mines	5.40
Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting	4.71
Steel Company of Canada	4.15
Canadian Ingersoll Rand	1.71
Canadian General Electric	2.88
Canada Cement	2.42

On the average, therefore, says Mr. Adamson, the corporations paid $1 in dividends and $2.26 in taxes. "The government's take from the owners of the productive plant in this country," Mr. Adamson concludes, "is more than twice the take of the owners. . . . If we are going to continue to compete in world markets, the old man of the sea, which is the government, has to be taken off the back of the production plant of this country; otherwise we are living in a day dream, which could rapidly become a nightmare."

Simple Precautions Against Polio

BECAUSE MORE POLIO CASES occur during the heat of summer than during other seasons of the year, Victoria's medical health officer has announced certain precautions which can be taken against the disease.

Such advice is not an occasion for alarm. Greater Victoria is not at this moment in the throes of an epidemic, nor will it be if conditions this season conform to those of recent years. There are, in fact, several other less publicized ailments which take a heavier toll than polio in this region.

The common sense precautions outlined by the health officer should, however, assist parents to protect their children from the disease which can exact a tragic price in the infrequent severe cases which do occur here.

Briefly the health authorities urge parents to teach children to keep their fingers out of their mouths, to wash their hands carefully before eating, to avoid crowds and strangers of their own age, and to postpone where possible dental extractions and nose and throat operations until the fall. Other general rules are laid down. They include protection of food from flies, washing of fruit and vegetables before eating, and avoidance of excessive physical exertion.

The advice is of particular value to those of our citizens planning trips south, or to other areas in which the incidence of polio is much higher than it is here.

Injustice to Mr. Drew

A short time ago the Hamilton Spectator, one of the oldest and strongest Conservative party papers in Canada, attacked Mr. Drew, the party leader, for promising increased children's allowances to the people of Quebec. It quoted Mr. Drew as indicating to rural audiences in Quebec that he proposed even to double the present baby bonus.

Believing in the accuracy of The Spectator and knowing as well that it was a strong supporter of Mr. Drew, we quoted its remarks here and offered some comments of our own.

Mr. Drew has denied in Parliament that he made any such statements as credited to him in The Spectator. He says he was misquoted by the non-partisan and reliable Canadian Press and that The Canadian Press has apologized to him for its inaccuracy.

Apparently, through The Canadian Press, through The Spectator and other papers depending on The Canadian Press, an injustice has been done to Mr. Drew, which we greatly regret. Since the report of his speeches, which he says was a gross distortion, has been widely distributed, it is to be hoped that his correction will reach all the Canadian people. And it is satisfactory to know that the leader of the Conservative party is not advocating an utterly irresponsible policy in respect of children's allowances.

Father Will Deal With the Boy

IN THIS ERA WHEN SO MANY youngsters find their way to court, it is encouraging to read a police report in which that process of law will be unnecessary.

As the result of a mishap with an air rifle, one Victoria youth has had his weapon taken from him and police have listed on the blotter the succinct statement: "The father will deal satisfactorily with this boy."

There may be difference of opinion placed on the adverb. What might be done "satisfactorily" in the eyes of one school of thought might be done highly "unsatisfactorily" in the opinion of another.

Whatever the treatment, however, it appears that it will be administered from the right source.

Some months ago Chief of Police John Blackstock had occasion to remark on the need for parental supervision of some Victoria children. At that time he said a little care by fathers and mothers now might save a lot of trouble and heartache to them and to their children later on.

If the chief's advice were taken, there would be less necessity for intervention by the police in what is called juvenile delinquency—a condition which can, and often does, develop from inadequate attention to a child in the home.

BOB RUARK SAYS:

U.S. Conventions Ordeal by Heat

CHICAGO—The late Will Rogers once remarked that the United States must indeed be a great nation, if it could undergo a national political convention once every four years, and he never uttered a truer word.

I suppose conventions are a democratic necessity. Like the hot dog, but sometimes I wonder if it wouldn't be simpler to settle the whole thing, one flop, high-dice wins. It would at least be cooler and less trying on the customer.

To say I am facing the ordeal of the next month with horror would be a mild understatement. The heat and high stupidity of the last convocation in the city of perpetual Sunday, Philadelphia, will always burn in the scar tissue of my soul. Especially do I recall the fine day in Convention Hall when I arose from a chair in a hurry and left the seat of my pants firmly affixed to the melting varnish. A man with no seat to his pants in Philadelphia is a pitiable object.

THE big story in the last one seemed to be television. It was a fairly fresh medium for the politico in those days—B. K., or before Kefauver—and they weren't very hot about make-up and stunts. As I recall the fiery Missus Clare Boothe Luce, she looked like a lady rising from the sea, and a little green, to boot. Television also fetched forth the William Jennings Bryan in the most undistinguished delegates, and every hunchbone from the deep sticks was constrained to make a speech for the benefit of the giant, sweeping cameras.

The Republican shindig last time was about as exciting as a pitched battle between two lust-bitten snails. Everybody knew it was to be Dewey, and they spent the week purely in sweating and sneering at the Democrats. They felt it had to be Harry, unless the party busted precedent and kicked him out of the nomination. And everybody knew that poor, pathetic Harry couldn't win it.

THE Democratic operation had all the jovial appeal of a lynching party. They left the President of the United States sitting out in an alley until about 2 a.m., and when he riz up finally to make his famous hell-roaring speech, few people heard him and fewer saw him on the TV screen. I saw him, and heard him. That is when I wrote the most accurate piece I ever wrote up. That was the piece which said Truman would win. No more cold logic for this boy from now on. From here in I am a hunch player.

It is nice to note that Messrs. Eisenhower and Taft opened this lawn-fest by thumbing noses at each other and hurling the well-ried epithet. You still get the impression that nobody cares who wins the election, and that life will stop after the Republican nomination is settled. I am personally convinced that the two major factions would rather lose with their man than win with the opposition's boy. The Democrats feel this rather strongly, too, and are licking their chops and grinning, Cheshire-cat fashion.

IT is the habit of all pundits to make sweeping predictions on the eve of battle, and I am no traitor to my guild. Merewith predictions, after mature deliberation.

It will be hot. It will get hotter. Whisky will be drunk. There will be crowds, there will be fistfights. All the cranks and camp-followers who attach themselves to big events, like prize fights and political bloodbaths, will strut and preen and posture and exhibit and point proudly to their own presence.

Speeches will be made. All will be dull, but some will be longer and duller than others, if that is possible, and I fear it is. Rumors, all unfounded, will circulate as the gospel. Children will get lost, and ladies will become ill. Everybody will write too much about too little, and the coverage of the unimportant will reach fantastic heights.

A BURP will be a thunderclap heard round the nation. A candidate for the presidency will be nominated by the Republicans, and later, by the Democrats, and one of them will lose in November. I wish it was November, now.

Less Talk More Time

Montreal Star

When the Prime Minister said that parliament would be summoned to meet again next November, he was careful to add that it would meet sooner if events demanded it. There was good reason for the caveat. In 1950, not long after the exhausted legislators had got home, Korean war developments and the railway strike brought them together again. If things were more tranquil last summer it was only because we were lucky. We have plenty of troubles, and parliaments are supposed to do something decisive about all of them.

If parliament is not so omnipotent as all that, it is at all events a deeply occupied body which also has the unhappy faculty of spending almost endless time moving at snail's pace, suddenly getting into a break-neck sprint which would put an Olympic sprinter to shame. For this state of affairs, everybody blames everybody else. Opposition parties say the government brings down its important legislation too late. The government declares it is the opposition's gift of the gab that is the trouble.

Periodically proposals are made to speed all parliamentary processes, but these seldom seem to anything. Nor will they until something like the British system is adopted, when, by prior arrangement, debate stops at a given moment and a vote is taken. This system has its drawbacks, but, as it operates, there is time for the presentation of differing viewpoints which is, after all, what is important.

UNCOMMON COMMON SENSE

Trainman News

...so many people consider the things done for them by government as social progress, and what is done for others as socialism."—Gov. Earl Warren of California.

Gall and Wormwood

Alternative Vote—Goal and Result

B.C.'S NEW alternative voting system did what it was supposed to do, but not in the way the old-line politicians who drafted it had intended.

Latest counts which indicate the election of a Social Credit government show how the new plan proved itself.

The main purpose behind the scheme was to forestall the election of a minority government which would radically change the economic direction of the province, that is the socialistic C.C.F.

The theory was that if the C.C.F. party is ever to gain control in B.C. it must be by the real will of the majority, not by slipping in on a three or four-cornered fight which could mean a socialist government that perhaps two-thirds of the voters did not really want.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN On that method the C.C.F. would have won 21 seats, Social Credit 14, Liberals nine, Conservatives three and Labor one. The alternative vote has already definitely switched five of these seats. Another two—in Vancouver Burrard—have taken the turn to Social Credit from the C.C.F. and are expected to finish that way. So that in the final analysis seven of the 48 seats will be changed by the new voting method altering the outcome of the election.

The Liberals, as a middle of the road party, had expected to make the most gains by the transfer of votes.

CALCULATIONS UPSET But the amazing upsurge of the Social Crediters, in the form of a protest against the old-line administration, upset all calculations.

It was the Socialists who did nearly all the gaining. They have already picked up Yale, Fort George and Similkameen by transfer, plus the two Burrard seats they are expected to take.

Liberals have lost three of their original first count nine seats, including Premier Johnson's and Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman's, and Dr. J. J. Gillis in Yale.

The C.C.F. picked up New Westminster by transfers, but, on present counts, stand to lose the two Burrard seats, as they have already lost Similkameen to the Socialists and Nanaimo to the Conservatives.

So it was the Liberals and the socialist C.C.F. who suffered most from the new method. —L.F.

As Our Readers See It

A "BUCK" NOT PASSED

I have just read your editorial on the current exchange situation and agree with you to a certain extent.

However, I believe this good fellowship can be carried too far. I have lived on the U.S. border for the past 10 years and have yet to see any of this on the American side.

When our dollar was worth ninety cents on the New York market we were told, often quite rudely, it was worth "about six-bits" take it or leave it. We even had our good dollars called "them there soap plasters" and had them pushed back at us by a Greek restaurant owner in Spokane.

Vary odd, indeed, he should now have a Canadian flag in his window and a sign "Our Canadian Friends are Welcome."

I say hew to the line and let the chips fall where they may. The shoe is now on the other foot.

SERMON IN STONE

On the eve of his departure for England, Canon Laycock preached at Christ Church Cathedral. His sermon was mainly concerned with the forthcoming effort to raise a very large sum in order to complete the Cathedral building.

As Canon Laycock's appeal naturally only reached those present at the service, it seemed to me that a letter to the press on the subject with a reference to some of the points that he stressed would not be out of place.

One thing in particular that he said was that the completion was of importance not only to the cathedral congregation and the Anglican community in general but to everyone. The canon spoke of the great beauty of the building as it is and the still greater beauty that it would acquire when completed, and he referred to Ely Cathedral in England where a small place without other attractions was nevertheless visited by large numbers of tourists who came to see the cathedral.

I do not think that there is any doubt at all that in Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria does possess a building capable of exercising a similar attraction because our cathedral is worthy of its name. It is much more than a fine church and does definitely possess a considerable share of the majesty of the great cathedrals of England and Europe.

Of course for many of us there is a much greater incentive than this. Canada is our home but we came from the old country—some of us a long time ago—I came in 1903—or we have strong old country connections. We desire above all things that the land of our adoption should be worthy of the destiny to which she is called. We know just what it was that gave Great Britain the right to be called great and we feel certain that in the completion of this great building to the glory of God Canada is taking one definite step in the right direction.

Who Killed Cock Robin?

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

From Chicago

IF SEN. ROBERT A. TAFT is beaten at this convention, the man he must chiefly blame is President Harry S. Truman. For the day when the senator's carefully constructed bandwagon began to slow down was the day when the President announced he would not run again.

Truman's withdrawal was such a mortal blow to Taft for two rather simple reasons. First of all with Truman out as the Democratic candidate, the Ohio senator lost the ideal target for the kind of no-holds-barred campaigning that he practices. Second, and much more important, it was really Truman's withdrawal which created the "Taft-can't-win" psychology.

If you talk to many of the delegates here assembled, you discover a peculiar difference between the Taft people and the Eisenhower people. The Taft people are mostly passionate personal admirers of their man whose brand of Republicanism they regard as the only "real Republicanism." The Eisenhower people, on the other hand, do not waste breath on theological discussions of "real Republicanism." They talk about how the Republicans can win the November election.

SWING GROUP

Perhaps half the Eisenhower people genuinely dislike Sen. Taft's political viewpoint, record and associations. This group actively desires a moderately progressive Republican party purged of isolationism and McCarthyism. But the other half of the Eisenhower people would be yelling for Sen. Taft this minute, if they thought, as one of them remarked to these reporters, that "Bob Taft had a tinker's chance in hell of getting to the White House."

This great swing group did indeed believe that Sen. Taft had a chance of being elected while they also believed that President Truman would be the Democratic nominee. It may be remembered that the public opinion poll taken prior to Truman's withdrawal showed the Ohio Senator with a slight but definite edge in trial heats against Truman.

A single opinion poll showing Sen. Taft with the slightest edge over any of the other potential Democratic nominees would have been worth untold gold to the Taft organizers here in Chicago. Instead, the moment Truman withdrew, the test polls invariably showed Sen. Taft trailing far behind the men the Democrats may nominate. Cruelly enough, the same polls showed the Democrats trailing far behind Gen. Eisenhower.

It may be against sound public policy, and it probably is. It may be silly, and it probably is. But the fact remains that the polls gave substance, in the minds of great numbers of the delegates here assembled, to the picture of Sen. Taft as an election-loser.

SPLIT PARTY

Perhaps Sen. Taft will overcome the "Taft-can't-win" psychology. But anyone who has sounded the minds of the many delegates here, can easily foresee that if the Senator is nominated, he is going to have a lot of trouble with the Republican faction—perhaps 25 per cent of the total here—that genuinely and deeply fears isolationism, McCarthyism and excessive conservatism. By the same token, if Gen. Eisenhower gets the nomination, he may have even worse trouble with the truly religious believers in Taft Republicanism, who perhaps comprise as many as 40 per cent of the delegate total.

It is very hard, at least for these probably obtuse reporters, to understand the fundamentally theological approach to politics of these right-wing Republicans. For them, the Republican right-wingers, the ordinary language of politics has acquired a lot of queer new meanings. Opponents of Sen. Taft and backers of Gen. Eisenhower are "Democrats," "concealed New Dealers," and "millionaire Socialists." The General himself, whose political speeches have been so markedly conservative, is none the less a "leftist." In short, anyone who is not for Sen. Taft should be investigated by Sen. McCarran.

And all of this means, in turn, that even if the desire to win the November election determines the Republican choice, the party will have a very hard time closing its ranks for a winning campaign.

Consider Now The Shortcake

Ottawa Journal

The time has arrived when sober-thinking citizens should unite in common defence of a cherished heritage. It is interesting that the strawberry is native to both Britain and North America. It is not at all strange that strawberries and roses belong to the same family; what the rose is to all other flowers, the strawberry is to all other fruits. "One of the countryman's polls shows that strawberries are the favorite fruit of the majority of citizens, with raspberries ranking second, and apples, peaches and bananas closely grouped for third place.

The point with which we are immediately concerned is the horrendous way so many use this admirable fruit. Thoughtless cooks take thin slabs of weary-looking sponge cake and over them heartlessly slice a few discouraged berries. Then to complete the crime, they ladle out a spoonful or two of gooey, runny whipped cream. That is a barbarous way to use strawberries and is also a barbaric way to eat them.

A tofflight shortcake is made only one way. Open two brown-crustured, hot-hearted and fragrant biscuits and place them in a capacious soup plate. On the inner surfaces spread plenty of butter. Over the four halves pour a generous pint of completely crushed, juicy strawberries. Let the strawberry-juice soak into the biscuits for exactly 55 seconds. Then you are ready to eat.

That is the way to prepare an honest strawberry shortcake. Any other methods are simply the ideas of opinionated, stubborn individuals who will not listen to reason.

Free Unions

New York Times

The International Labor Organization's annual conference in Geneva has closed on an important note, adoption of a strong resolution proclaiming the rights of trade unions to develop free of political influence.

The role of the trade union in a free society is a perennial subject for discussion wherever the union's role as a social agency is taken seriously. In recent years the difficulty has been that the trade unions have, in some countries, been subject to absorption or extinction by political leaders or movements.

PRAIRIE ROUND-UP

Winnipeg-Based Plane Crashes

EDMONTON, July 10 (CP)—R.C.A.F. officials in Edmonton Wednesday night confirmed the crash of a Winnipeg-based Mustang fighter-bomber at Teslin Lake near Whitehorse, Y.T., 1,000 miles north of Edmonton. The name of the pilot killed in the crash is being withheld until next-of-kin are notified.

It was the second crash in less than two weeks in the Whitehorse area. The air force is holding a two-week reserve training camp in the Yukon. Eleven days ago a Mitchell bomber disappeared with four men aboard and has not been found.

Air force headquarters in Edmonton said the Mustang was practicing dive-bombing and failed to pull out of a dive. Contrary to earlier reports, they said the plane did not explode in mid-air, but plunged into the water and sank.

The plane, attached to No. 402 City of Winnipeg Squadron, was left today to return to Winnipeg.

Collision Death

EDMONTON, July 11 (BUP)—An inquest was held today into the death of Robert Forwick, aged 51, of Edmonton, following a train-truck collision 20 miles southeast of the Alberta capital.

Police say Forwick died instantly when the truck he was riding failed to clear a level-crossing before being hit by a C.N.R. train Thursday.

Truck driver Henry Zureh, also of Edmonton, said Forwick had told him the railway line was clear when he started across it.

Crop Damage

WINNIPEG, July 11 (BUP)—Farmers in western Manitoba are reported to have suffered up to 100 per cent hail damage in a storm which hit the area Wednesday evening.

The storm cut a three-mile swath through grain fields and gardens in the Franklin district.

The storm was said to have wiped out some of the best crop prospects in years in the Neepawa region. And damage at Carberry is placed at between 50 and 100 per cent.

Electrocuted

DAUPHIN, Man., July 11 (BUP)—A Carberry hydro worker—Clarence Robinson—was electrocuted near Dauphin Thursday while helping to erect a new hydro pole.

A second man, 34-year-old John Clark, received burns, but his condition is reported to be good in Dauphin hospital.

Robinson was killed when a pole made contact with a power line, and 33,000 volts surged through the ground wire, to the new pole, and then to the hydraulic lift which Robinson was operating.

The statement of defense stage at Ottawa and it bore the claims the article was true and published in the public interest.

The statement filed by solicitor Ghent Davis on behalf of the case has not been fixed.

A Warning about Foreign Attachments to Telephones

Telephone subscribers are reminded that the use of telephone attachments unauthorized by the Telephone Company is contrary to regulations governing telephone service. This is pointed out because from time to time certain devices of this kind appear on the market and are offered for sale or for rent to telephone users.

The regulation applying to "non-approved devices" follows:

The subscribers shall not use or permit to be used any electrical or mechanical apparatus or device in connection with the equipment or facilities furnished by the Company without the written consent of the Company, or permit the attachment of advertising devices thereto. If any apparatus or device of any kind other than those furnished or approved by the Company are attached to or connected with any part of the Company's property, the Company may remove such apparatus or device or terminate the service.

This regulation is, of course, in the interests of good telephone service and, therefore, for the protection of telephone subscribers generally. Some attachments to telephones can impair service. And interference with service on one telephone does not stop with that instrument. Others are bound to be affected.

That's why telephone regulations prohibit telephone attachments without the written consent of the Telephone Company.

Britain's 'Heavy' Dollar Deficit With Canada May Highlight Meet

SWIMMER DIES

Quick Rescue Resuscitation Unavailing

NANAIMO, July 11.—Swimming too soon after a meal was believed cause of death of Gildo Carmaguola, 28, recently from Italy, in waters of Departure Bay at 6 p.m. Thursday.

The body was recovered by Cyril Dawkins, who swam out from shore halfway to a diving float about 75 yards out. He was assisted by two unidentified persons in a boat.

Nanaimo fire department inhalator squad worked for an hour in an unsuccessful attempt to revive the man, and a doctor administered adrenalin directly into the heart in a second attempt.

Coroner H. W. Lewis called an inquest for Friday at 2 p.m. in Westwood funeral chapel.

Witnesses said Carmaguola was swimming back to shore from the diving float when he sank. He was under water about four minutes before help could reach him.

He resided at the home of his uncle, William Merlo, Nanaimo.

U.K. Reported Making Progress Bridging Dollar Gap With U.S.; Canadian Balance Gapes

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, July 11. (CP)—Britain's "heavy" dollar deficit with Canada is likely to be one of the principal topics discussed when Commonwealth finance ministers meet again in London, it was suggested today.

Although no date has been set, a Commonwealth finance conference is expected to be held here in the fall.

Commenting on the conference, the Daily Telegraph says today that Britain in recent months has made some progress in bridging the dollar gap with the United States, but that the balance with Canada has proved "peculiarly intractable."

Substantial reductions in imports, especially wheat, are hard to obtain, and an expansion in exports is proving equally slow, the Daily Telegraph says in a financial-page story.

The current issue of Lloyd's Bank Review, a journal devoted to financial affairs, also expresses concern at Britain's slice of the Canadian import market.

The article, by Prof. Ely Devons of Manchester University, analyzes export trends over the last 15 years, and says: "The fall in the share of Canadian imports supplied by the United Kingdom is particularly serious, because Canada is one of the most rapidly expanding markets of the world."

The proportion of total Canadian imports supplied by Britain in 1951, says the article, was only 10.3 per cent, compared with an average of 18.3 per cent in 1937-1939. And while Britain's share of the Canadian market was dwindling there was a corresponding increase in the U.S. share.

At another point, Professor Devons singles out Canada as the most striking example of countries which now take fewer United Kingdom cotton goods.

"Before the war the U.K. supplied over one-half of Canada's imports of cotton piece goods and

WIFE STEALER DESERVES LASH SAYS CHURCH

LONDON, July 11. (Reuters)—The official organ of the Church of England today suggested that "wife-stealers" should be flogged.

The Church of England newspaper said:

"There is a class of men fond of assuring other men's wives how willingly they would go through fire and torment for them."

"Ultimately," it added, "they very often become co-respondents in divorce cases."

"It might have a salutary effect on the statistics of divorce if such men had to prove their devotion by feeling the whip on their backs."

Duplessis Leads Quebec Election Oratory

QUEBEC, July 11. (CP)—The powerful Quebec government of Premier Maurice Duplessis, in office since 1944, places its case for re-election in the hands of 2,250,000 voters next Wednesday.

The 62-year-old premier's high reorganized Liberal party, and now led by 45-year-old Georges Lapalme, says the government is expensive and corrupt. The premier's party has put up 91 candidates for the 92 provincial legislature seats of which it won 82 four years ago. It offers no opposition to Rene Chaloult, spokesman in the legislature for Quebec nationalists as a quarter-century of service groups, concerned with French-Canada's rights under confederation.

Publicity in all forms has been poured at voters and the quiet of election in his home-town of Three Rivers is the main centre of attraction.

ISLAND DIGEST

DUNCAN, July 11.—Unless use of water here is strictly curtailed, the supply will be exhausted by Saturday, according to waterworks officials.

Abnormal hot weather demands have lowered the reservoir to the danger point, and the pumping system drawing water from Cowichan River 24 hours per day cannot keep pace with the dropping level. Already some residents have been forced to carry water.

Watering of gardens and cooling of buildings with overhead sprinklers will be curtailed.

PORT ALBERNI, July 11.—This city's water problem is one of over-production and under-consumption.

With sawmills shut down by the I.W.A. strike and using only a fraction of their customary supply of water, pressure in the mains is too high and several leaks in the water system have resulted.

NANAIMO, July 11.—Nanaimo Fish and Game Association gave support to the Courtenay game club's complaint of road closures effected by logging companies that keep hunters and fishermen from land and streams they have enjoyed for many years.

The clubs claim that lakes and streams are stocked with taxpayers' money, and that free access should be permitted.

PORT ALBERNI, July 11.—R.C.M.P. on Wednesday recovered the body of Peter Thomas, six, in Alberni Inlet, about six miles from the spot on Somass River where the child had last been seen eight days before.

An inquiry will be conducted by James Washington, Parksville coroner, in the absence of the local coroners.

NANAIMO, July 11.—The new $1,000,000 senior high school now nearing completion will be ready for occupancy shortly after the reopening of schools in September, school trustees reported after an inspection of the building.

SUMMER SCHOOL SERIES

U.S. Monologist In Unusual Recital Here

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Entertainment of a somewhat unusual type was offered summer school students Thursday morning when Dorothy Crawford, American monologist, presented a recital of character sketches. Laughter and pathos were nicely balanced in the original monologues, which are written by Miss Crawford herself.

Tall, slender, blond and good looking, she is an actress of tremendous charm and grace. Her one-woman theatre is full of humor and vibrancy. The delectable gaiety of "Studio Party" was impled in its light caritaturing of an adde-pated hostess and her distinguished guests, the British poetess, the Russian Countess and the singer with a head cold.

There is not the profundity, the broad humanity or the delicate sharp etching of a Ruth Draper—at least, not at present. Nevertheless, her "Harlequin" is not only cleverly written, but shrewd and perceptive in characterization. The three witnesses were distinctive, recognizable types.

Miss Crawford demonstrated her well-developed dramatic sense in letting her audience laugh heartily before she gripped them in a tense silence while she rose to a climax of pathos and power.

FILM REVIEW

TWO FOR THE SHOW

AA (Oscar class). BB (Worthwhile).
A (Don't miss). B (For rainy days).
C (To put in time).

By PHIL LEE

Fort Defiance (Plaza).—I purposely refrain from rating this one. If you don't like "pulp" stories where you can't see the acting for the gunsmoke then give "Fort Defiance" a wide berth.

But if you're like I am, if you thoroughly enjoy (for a change) an afternoon or evening of riding a couple of thousand miles over mountains and through cactus, being shot at by white man and Indian, being bitten and mauled in hand-to-hand combat while safe in your theatre seat, then this one's for you, pardner.

Dane Clark, as Johnny, is about the fastest-drawing two-gun desperado I've seen in a long time. He's mean and a killer in the finest tradition. When he turns up at the Triple T ranch where his blind brother Ned (Peter Graves) is building up a partnership with Civil War veteran Ben

Lee

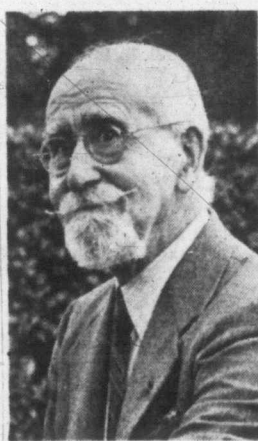

Johnson, he starts a chain of events that has death and misery for a background.

Before Johnny's arrival Ben has sworn to kill him for his infamous part in the battle of Tennessee Ridge, so have the townspeople who have lost men in the Ridge battle because Johnny sold them out. But the Indians, being rounded up and segregated by army authorities, make war on the white man. The ensuing fight between the warring factions is a death-dealing donnybrook that leaves us real western action fans slumping in our seats, weak from vicarious gun-slinging and fighting.

'And best of it is, fellas, they haven't murred the action with too much love-making. Hardly anyone gets kissed at all.

Four In A Jeep.—Second part of the Plaza bill is a cracking fine play produced by Lazar Wisner and based on the four-power postwar occupation of Vienna. The excitement of the story comes from an intense chase, its authority from the photography and its realism from dialogue which employs, as well as English, French and Russian with English subtitles.

Swedish actress Viveca Lindfors plays her highly emotional part highly emotionally. The men, however, I thought excellent: Ralph Meeker as the American; Michael Medwin, the Britisher; Dinan, the Frenchman; and Joseph Yadin as the Russian.

Herbert Kent 90 on Sunday

Victoria's grand old man, Herbert Kent, will celebrate his 90th birthday Sunday.

A Victorian since the age of two, he will be "at home" to friends and acquaintances Sunday evening at his home, 238 Douglas Street.

Far more active than many men half his age, Mr. Kent goes for a walk each day through beautiful Beacon Hill Park, chats with visitors, watches youngsters playing ball and devotes another large part of his time to gardening.

A life-long devotee of music and the theatre, he is the last surviving charter member of the Arion Club, oldest male-voice choir on the Pacific coast. He is still active with the choir and is, in fact, one of its mainstays.

Norman Thomas holds the record for presidential attempts at six. He ran on the Socialist ticket, Eugene V. Debs made five attempts to win the presidency on the Socialist ticket.

Doubt Cast on Report of Big Loan to Britain

LONDON, July 11 (Reuters).—A British financial official said Thursday that he knew of nothing to lend any color to a Canadian report that Canada and the United States might jointly lend as much as $2,500,000,000 or $3,000,000,000 to Britain, so that Britain could "set sterling free."

This official conjectured that the report might be a dramatization of some lesser measures that the Canadian government might contemplate. Such as some special measures to finance the export of wheat and any other Canadian surpluses that need markets.

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP).—Government officials said Thursday night they had no information to support a published report that Canada and the United States will make a currency stabilizing loan to Britain. At the state and treasury de-

WRONG SISTER

Tommy Weds Ninth After Second Look

NEW ROCHELLE, NEW YORK (UPI).—Tommy Manville mistook a twin sister for his fiancée today but recovered quickly enough to light a cigarette and marry the right girl at New Rochelle, New York.

The 38-year-old perennial bridegroom—the marriage bureau's best friend—said "I do" for the ninth and "positively my last" time.

The heir to asbestos millions absent-mindedly held the cigarette in his hand through the ceremony in which platinum blonde Anita Roddy-Eden—29-year-old Atlantic, Georgia, beauty, became the ninth Mrs. Manville.

She said it was "not only my first but also my last marriage." She was accompanied by her twin sister, Mrs. Juanita Patino, and Manville almost married her. Manville first got into an auto with Mrs. Patino and talked energetically to her for several minutes.

"I think he thought it was Anita," Mrs. Patino said, "for a moment there, I thought I might get married again today."

New Wizard-Like Utensil Will Cut Your Food Bill

By PENNY SAVER

It is three utensils in one! It strains, it mashes and it rices! You are now probably saying "What in the world is that Penny talking about now?"

Well, if you must know, I'm talking about a food mill! A wizard-like utensil, it slashes minutes from meal-making and ends wasteful coring and peeling.

The food mill was designed by a famous chef for quick and easy preparation of cream soups, smooth mashes vegetables, fruits and desserts—for canning jam and juices—for straining baby food and adult smooth diet.

Steel fashions the mill and it's rust and acid resistant. The whole thing is easy to clean and to use. When using the mill you turn the paddle right, using downward pressure—reverse paddle often.

Of course everything that the mill is capable of doing is outstanding, but to my mind, the fact that it will make apple sauce without you having to peel or core the apples beforehand is sensational.

It will mash soft, fresh and cooked fruits and vegetables for peas, puddings, ice cream and juice—grates nuts and cheese—crushes crackers.

The food mill will fit on top of a pan or bowl. Price for the food mill is $3.55, and it doesn't take very much figuring to realize that in no time at all it will have paid for itself.

Very often, at this time of year, you are looking for accessories to brighten or change a costume.

Have you considered a crochet set? You know, a purse, matching gloves and bag. They're as cute as can be!

You can get the sets in any color your heart desires. They're made right here in Victoria, which is something in itself, but besides that they can be washed.

The hat is a cloche style and the bag is a neat little pouch with the draw-string top. Cloche sells for $2.95, the gloves for $2.50 and the bag for $3.95.

A dandy costume booster for mid-summer.

AS WE LIVE

Invalid, 26, Should Avoid Marriage to Older Woman

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

Age differences in marriage can be the source of much trouble, especially when the wife is the older of the two. When the difference is so great that the husband could be the son of the wife, there is likely to be trouble ahead. That is why the young man who wrote the following letter should watch out:

(Q)—"I am 26 years old. At the present time, I am confined to a sanatorium. During my stay here, I have fallen in love with a nurse who is 25 years older than I. I am very much in need of advice. Should I marry her or wait until I recover my health and look around a little more?"

I can think of no greater folly than for a man of your age to marry a woman in the thirties. There is a whole generation between the two of you, not only in age but also in interests and point of view. She is literally old enough to be your mother.

Then, too, so long as you are ill enough to be in a sanatorium, you are in no position to assume the responsibilities of marriage. Unless you have a private income large enough to support yourself and a wife, it would not be fair for you to ask any woman to marry you, regardless of her age.

The very fact that you say it might be wise to wait and "look around" suggests that you are not sure in your own mind about your feelings for this woman. You unquestionably are fond of her and she has doubtless done much to make your stay at the sanatorium happier than it might otherwise have been.

But I question whether you really love her or she, you. It is almost impossible for two people so far apart in age and interests to be really in love. And unless you are really in love there is no excuse for marriage.

Concentrate your time and energies now on regaining your health. Forget about romance and marriage until you are in a position to think seriously about them. Then when you are well enough to return home and resume your work, there will be plenty of time to consider what you want to do with the rest of your life.

Do not hurt the feelings of this woman who has been so good to you during your invalidism. Keep up your friendship with her, even after you return home. She will realize in time, just as you will how unwise a marriage between you would be.

Elizabeth Hurlock is one of the nation's great psychologists, and she will gladly help you with personal problems.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

These Teenagers Should Give Nature More Time

Q. "Can you help us two girls with our problem? We are teenagers. Our shape is O.K. but our busts are too small. Is there anything we could do to improve the situation?"

A. You did not give me your ages, but I suspect that you just have to give nature more time. Some girls develop curves earlier than others. However, you could take bust developing exercises. They can't hurt you. If you would like to have mine send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for Leaflet No. 7, "Don't Have Round Shoulders, Flat Bust—Reverse," to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Q. "No exercises seem to suit me. I have thin ankles. What can I do to increase their size?"

A. The contour of the ankle depends mainly on bony structure. Therefore it is difficult to increase this measurement. If you are underweight, a gain in weight might help a little and general development through sports and leg exercises would be beneficial. Everyone wants slim ankles. Why not you?

Q. "Though I am thin and only in my early thirties, I have a double chin. I can't understand why. Can you help me?"

A. Since you told me in your letter that you are slim, weight cannot be the reason. I suspect posture. Learn how to carry your head correctly. In the meantime here is some first aid: Lower your head backward to the right, tipping your right ear over your right shoulder. Raise the head to usual position. Lower it back to the left, tipping the left ear over the left shoulder. Raise. Continue, alternating right and left.

Q. "I am a very unhappy teenager and I hope you will be able to help me. For two years I have been trying to find a deodorant which will work on me, but in vain."

A. I am a little confused as to what your problem is—too much perspiration or an unpleasant odor? There is a difference between deodorants and non-perspirants. Deodorants take away odor and the latter are supposed to stop perspiration at the place applied. So far as I know, nothing completely stops perspiration, at least that has been my experience. However, there are some products which do a pretty good job of it. I am wondering if yours may be a problem for a physician or a skin specialist.

Bridal Shower

Miss Ethel Barker, July bride-elect, was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given recently at the home of Mrs. C. Parsons, Carey Road. Gifts were concealed in a wishing well which stood in front of a fireplace artistically decorated with pink and white streamers.

White bells, a setting of lilies and pink carnations, framed a miniature bride and groom. Red roses and white stephanotis formed the corsage presented to the bride-elect. Sister Mrs. J. Marshall, who will be matron of honor, and Mrs. E. LeBus, mother of the groom-elect, each received corsages of pink carnations and white stephanotis. A buffet-tea was served from table-centred with Talisman roses, baby's breath and pink carnations held by interwoven pastel streamers.

Guests were Mesdames A. Bryant, J. Marshall, M. Patterson, F. Hancock, E. Marshall, H. Schofield, L. Walsh, W. Calve, G. Hughes, F. Jepson and Misses Ida Venables and Maud Venables.

Ever cook green onions? Smothered with cheese sauce and served on toast, they are delicious for lunch or supper.

Between Ourselves

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Nationally-known Hilda Hesson (one-time alderman of Winnipeg, active in Progressive Conservative national women's organization and a past president of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs) recently coined the words "tired business woman."

She described this species on the national scene as—"She who smartly and efficiently makes sense of the awful miles of dictations that she has taken down, . . . She who smooths down irate customers, who cannot do business on the golf course or at the club. . . . She who daily meets the unreasonable and demanding public and keeps it doing business. . . . She, who not only hourly for years has laid a feast of reasons before rooms filled with other women's spoiled children, but has attended meetings innumerable to plan how to improve the appetites of said children for this diet."

And she added, "The average tired business woman goes home to at least supervise, more probably to get the evening meal—to plan next morning's breakfast, to straighten up her house or flat or room, to dress herself smartly that she may attend a lecture, a concert or play bridge. . . . And so she marches through the days—sometimes weary to death-brain and body fagged. But gallant, always."

In her article, written a short time ago for the B. & P.W. federation magazine, Miss Hesson goes on to paint a picture of the day the tired business woman becomes the "retired" business woman.

She asks: "What shall she do? Where shall she go? Brothers and sisters are married or settled to their own ways of living and anyway, the years have drawn them apart. . . . There is a little money in the bank, an insurance policy, a carefully hoarded nest egg, a small pension. There are friends—yes, too, have grown grey and tired, but are still personalities to enjoy."

And then Hilda Hesson comes to her main point. Why not a national project for the C.F.B.P.W.'s—the establishment of a home for retired business women, with sufficient grounds so that some small bungalows might be built near the centre unit?

She explains: "Each householder should become a shareholder, and pay a definite down payment when she becomes eligible. . . . All this could be arranged on a proper actuarial basis so that the money advanced by the federation for the initial purchase of the house could be repaid over the years."

Just at this point she names the project: "A Castle in Spain."

Miss Hesson will be attending the national biennial meeting of Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs in Vancouver, Oct. 10-12.

There will be more than 500 women present, representing clubs in every province in Canada, including Newfoundland. No doubt her "Castle in Spain" will be presented as a proposed national project to this convention.

And if it is, it should have the unqualified approval of every woman present—all of them "tired business women" who, sooner or later will become the "retired business woman."

Aftermath of a Garden Party

You know about suppressed desires, don't you? How, according to psychologists, they are pushed away down in the subconscious and come popping up to the surface when you least expect it—to embarrass you—or annoy you—or to push you into doing something you just wouldn't think of doing in the ordinary course of events.

Well, last Wednesday along about 6:30 p.m., my assistant, Dawn van Norman, and I discovered we had one suppressed desire in common. It popped to the surface of our minds at the same time.

And, if you'll promise not to tell anyone, I'll confess that for five minutes, we let our mutual suppressed desire take over.

It was at Government House! At the end of the garden party. We had been up at the Castle with Photographer Irving Strickland to take one last picture and returning down the driveway we looked out across the wide green lawns—where a few minutes before hundreds of guests had been gathered.

Everyone had left. So we stood for a moment, admiring the garden.

"You know, I've always thought I'd like to" . . . I started to say.

"My grass looks cool," murmured Dawn. "I'd love to. . . . We looked at each other.

"My feet hurt!" I said. . . . "So do mine!" said Dawn. . . . "Shall we?" I asked her. . . . "Let's!" she replied.

"What are you two women up to?" queried Strickland. "What ever it is, don't do it. Come on, let's get out of here."

But he was too late! My assistant and I had our shoes off. And we were prancing around on the cool green lawns in our stocking feet. We walked all around the garden and across the big lawn, with our shoes in our hands. That's how we indulged one suppressed desire. M-m-m-m! It felt good!

London's New Dugouts Wide Open But Secret

BY FERN RICH

LONDON (NEA).—The second city of London, which has been growing beneath England's capital for the past year and a half, is supposed to be a big secret.

But like most secrets, nearly everyone knows about this one. The catch is that no official will say "yes," "no," or even "maybe."

What actually seems to be going on is the building of an atom-proof citadel, 45 feet beneath London streets. Seven shafts have been excavated, all of which will be linked by tunnels and possibly by electric trains.

Supposedly there are thousands of rooms being constructed, complete with power generators, food storage facilities, telephones and all the equipment necessary to permit the various ministries and civil servants to carry on government in case of atomic attack.

CITADEL KNOWN

Londoners are now well aware of the citadel used by Prime Minister Churchill and government leaders during the Battle of Britain. It accommodated 2,000 people and was built of steel and concrete.

It was called the Rotunda and still exists and has been maintained. In another part of London, about three miles from Whitehall, is a World War II deep air raid shelter which has also been maintained and which some guess will be included in the underground network.

Not far from Parliament Square and Big Ben, some of the most impressive construction work is going on behind thick walls at least 10 feet high. Doors in the wall are equipped with buzzers and a postage stamp size peephole. Police signs request that roads be kept clear due to "excavating work in progress."

I buzzed for the foreman and a burly, kindly-faced giant opened the door, came out on the sidewalk and quickly closed the door behind him. I told him I wanted to know about the digging and asked for the foreman. He was very polite and said he would fetch him.

Still standing on the sidewalk outside the high wall, I tried looking inconspicuously while passers-by turned to stare. The foreman, a gaunt, cheerful Irishman with a rich brogue, answered my questions.

"I'm not allowed to show you the place, miss," he said. "I'm sorry."

"But it is an atomic shelter?"

"This one?" he said, being careful not to answer my question directly. "Is a very important site. It leads right into Buckingham Palace and Westminster Abbey."

ROOM FOR ARMY

"Of course, if you steel boys stay on strike," he continued, "that plan will have to be scrapped."

"You can't keep people from talking," the foreman continued. "It's not much of a secret, you know. As a matter of fact, there's another of these holes over there (he pointed toward Horseferry Road near Victoria Street) which hasn't got a big solid fence around like this one. You can stand there and see just what the workmen are doing."

At the other "secret" shaft, just as the foreman had said, the usual group of sidewalk superintendents watching the excavating of pits, one of which was filled with water which kept coming up below.

"Room enough down there for the whole British Army, I bet," said one man to another.

"Frightening, isn't it?" a striped-trousered one commented, then looked up at the bright blue sky into the warm sunshine, shuddered and walked away.

As the foreman said, London's mysterious holes-in-the-ground aren't much of a secret. Except for the fact that the Ministry of Defense says there aren't any.

Alaskan Invasion Seen If Another War Comes

BY WILLIAM CHAPMAN

United Press Staff Correspondent

SEATTLE, Wash.—The third world war when and if it will mean aerial attacks on the Pacific Northwest but mostly military observers agree there is little danger of concerted enemy ground action except through Alaska.

The soft, western underbelly of Washington extends inland less than 50 miles. There, any attacking force would encounter the north-south spine of the Cascade Mountains, a range higher, more rugged and better suited to defensive action than the terrain of Korea.

If, by some ingenious feat of naval treachery, an enemy could amass enough ships for an invasion and withstand U.S. naval and air strength long enough to land a force in the northwest, he would in all probability be bottled on Washington's extreme western coast, an easy prey to relentless retaliation from both sea and air.

AIR ATTACK QUESTIONED

The Soviet Union is known to have a tremendous paratrooper force but the effectiveness of a long range airborne attack over great distances in the face of strong air defenses is questionable.

Washington and the remainder of the northwest is ringed with air bases, naval fleet and air stations and army camps, all operating on 24-hour alert.

Within an hour's drive of Seattle are Paine and McChord Air Force Bases; two giant civilian fields (Boeing and Seattle-Tacoma), Fort Lewis and Camp Murray (army), the Bremerton Naval Base and Whidby Island naval air station.

In Oregon, central and eastern Washington, in northern Idaho and Montana, are more, all manned and ready for the worst.

It would take an invasion from the sea to create a serious military threat to the mainland. Naval experts agree Russia is not now capable of a full scale invasion from the sea.

However, far to the north, American and Russian territory nearly touch at the Arctic Circle. There Alaska and Siberia are separated only by a thin strip of frigid blue water, the often ice-choked Behring Strait. In winter the strait is frozen and it is possible for men to walk from the U.S.S.R. to Alaska.

WOULD NEED HELP

LT-Gen. William H. Kepner, commander of armed forces in Alaska, said "I'd need help in a hurry if the Russians moved large numbers of troops against us... and I think they could do it."

He said present defense in Alaska could not withstand a sustained attack but he said, too, Alaska would not be abandoned in case of attack.

"We'd make every effort to keep any enemy from setting up air bases or road networks," he said.

The help he would need would come from the airmen, soldiers and sailors who are ready for anything today in the Pacific northwest.

Hope New Spud Boosts Yield For Prairies

REGINA (CP).—A new variety of potato that promises better crop for western farmers has been developed by University of Saskatchewan scientists.

The new potato is a cross between the Netted Gem and Earline types, and is more suitable to the short growing season in Saskatchewan.

The popular Netted Gem has many good characteristics including high yield, but demands a longer growing season and more moisture than Saskatchewan generally affords.

The Earline, a comparatively new variety, introduced in 1930, is a short-season plant with only a fair yield. It is hoped the new hybrid will combine the best characteristics of both.

U.S. Marksmen Dominate Police Department Shoot

American entrants took top honors here in the annual two-day Victoria Police Department's shoot at Thetis Lake range which ended Thursday.

Seattle and Tacoma police teams placed first and second, with a city police team composed of Sgt. Jack Mason, Detective Alec Briggs and Constables Nap Bouchard and Bob Mair in third spot.

In a special-event shoot, for city officials other than competing members, Public Safety Commissioner William E. Farrar of Tacoma placed first, with Oak Bay Police Chief Hugh Reston second.

City Firemen Give Council Hall Petition

A petition for a referendum before any Victoria fire halls are closed is now in the hands of City Council's executive committee.

City Solicitor Arthur Patton reported to council Thursday the petition was signed by 21.7 per cent of the registered voters. Twenty per cent is required.

"File it," urged Ald. Robert Macmillan of the report.

Ald. Waldo Skilling, moved to refer to the executive committee. The petition was taken up by members of the firemen's union after council ordered closure of the Yates Street fire hall as an "economy" measure. Ten men were dismissed.

Council does not have to hold a referendum. If held, council is still not compelled to abide by the results.

Dehydration of Body Can Prove Dangerous

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

If a person took water into the body in the form of drinking water, milk, or food, an average of only two quarts a day, he or she would have consumed 12,775 gallons by the age of 70.

This is a lot of water, and we take it very much for granted. Water is lost from the body by evaporation from the skin in the form of perspiration and from the lungs with each outward breath. It is lost also in the urine, in the intestinal waste, and in the saliva.

MANY FACTORS

The amount of water lost by way of the skin and lungs depends on the temperature of the atmosphere, the amount of muscular effort and the moisture in the air. With violent exercise, the water loss in perspiration is enormously increased and in hot climates may be around three quarts a day.

Nearly three-fourths of the body's weight is water. Fatty tissue and bone are lowest in water content. The liquid part of blood is 92 parts water and the cells contain well over one-half water. The muscles are made up of more than three-fourths water.

The ordinary person under normal conditions has no great trouble with water because if the loss speeds up, it is made up by drinking more.

However, dehydration or excessive loss of water may develop as a result of several symptoms associated with a variety of diseases such as persistent vomiting, prolonged diarrhea, abnormal sweating, or excretion of large quantities of urine. In such cases it is frequently necessary to make up the water loss by giving fluids to sick persons by injection or by other routes.

First Aid Man Fought to Help Injured Person; Is Handcuffed

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., July 11 (CP)—An industrial first aid attendant, who was restrained by handcuffs at the scene of an accident by city police, was given a suspended sentence for his action when he appeared in police court Thursday.

Officers testified that Arthur Frank Radbourne attempted to assault them while they tried to remove an injured man from an automobile June 29. They said they had handcuffed him.

Radbourne, who was at the scene before the police, bound the legs of the injured man, R. A. la Pierre, with handkerchiefs.

"He had a broken leg and I was determined he should not be moved until the ambulance arrived," Radbourne said.

He said he was attempting to assist shock by rubbing La Pierre's chest and arms but was forcibly dragged away by police.

The officers said they pulled Radbourne away from the injured man because they thought he might have internal injuries.

There are probably more species of insects on earth than all other creatures combined. About 800,000 species have been catalogued in museums, says the National Geographic Society.

RADIO AIR AID PLAN

Veteran Pilot Flies Survey Near Terrace

A $375,000 radio range beacon to guide freight-carrying aircraft into Terrace, B.C., is a possibility, according to Air Vice Marshal A. T. Cowley, director of air services, department of transport.

Air Vice Marshal Cowley was in Victoria Thursday evening visiting Prince George and Terrace.

Airline operators have requested the beacon so that planes carrying freight to Kitimat can land safely on instruments. The Terrace field, in a narrow valley, is not easy to negotiate.

Air Vice Marshal Cowley reports that there is no appropriation available for work at the present, but that the department might agree to include it in next year's estimates.

"We are going ahead with preliminary surveys, so we can act quickly if the expenditure is authorized," he said.

He explained that most radio ranges cost from $125,000 to $150,000 to build. The extra cost of the Terrace-Prince George range is because a road must be built and power lines constructed.

Air Vice Marshal Cowley is at the western end of an annual trans-continental inspection trip, visiting headquarters of each of the six divisions. He is accompanied by:

Dr. William Prowse, chief of aviation medicine; H. J. Connolly, superintendent of construction, air services; C. Ramsay, newly appointed chief architect; Henry Brassard, senior officer, personnel branch; C. M. Bryant, senior officer, telecommunication division; Dr. Thomas How, district controller, air services, Edmonton; Capt. H. R. Finley, senior pilot and inspector; Stuart Grant, junior pilot and inspector; and David Griffin, flight engineer.

The party is traveling in a Lockheed Lodestar, piloted by Air Vice Marshal Cowley. They left Thursday evening for the return trip to Ottawa.

400 Air Force Reserves Will Train in East

The West Coast's reserve air force fighter squadrons and radar groups will take off for the east and two weeks of manoeuvres with eastern fighter groups July 18.

Sixteen Mustang fighter airplanes, led by Group Capt. Geoff Northcott, will leave Sea Island air base about 6 a.m., and three hours later, North Stars and Dakotas of the R.C.A.F. Transport Command will start the air lift which will carry more than 400 men and women from the Lower Mainland and Vancouver Island to their annual training.

The two fighter squadrons, with their ground personnel, will be based at Uplands, near Ottawa, while the radar groups from Vancouver and Victoria will be based at St. Hubert, Que.

Exercises this year will be held in conjunction with the United States Air Force, who will provide bomber groups to test the readiness of the radar network in the eastern section of Canada.

Exercises will be carried out on Saturday and Sunday, immediately after arrival at Uplands, with both 422 and 443 squadrons on readiness until Monday, when they will stand down for a day. Exercises will be resumed on Tuesday and Wednesday, with a stand-down on Thursday, in preparation for the "main event" on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 25-26 and 27.

Council Hears Palsy Victim Tag Day Plea

Request for a tag day to aid in setting up a Victoria clinic for cerebral palsy sufferers was referred to finance committee by city council meeting Thursday.

Mrs. Patricia Dufour representing the Pythian cerebral palsy committee, read a brief outlining existing facilities and need for a Victoria clinic.

She said the Pythian Order in B.C. is aiding Cerebral Palsy Association by bringing parents together in clubs and raising funds.

Ald. Waldo Skillings said he felt the matter was a responsibility of the provincial department of health and said a tag day would provide very little in the way of funds. Mrs. Dufour stated other projects would also be undertaken.

A representative of parents who have a child suffering from cerebral palsy spoke of the need for co-operative group action.

Pensioners Enjoy Gossip, Weather At Annual Picnic

It wasn't the noisiest of the season, nor was there the usual baseball game, but the picnic in Mount Douglas Park Thursday afternoon, attended by more than 100 old-age pensioners, was a pretty lively affair at that.

Ranging in age from 70 to close to 90, the pensioners, members of Branch No. 5 of the Old Age Pensioners' Organization, found lots to talk about in the shade of the park's big evergreens.

Illness Fatal to California Guest

A perennial visitor to this city Sidney A. Trevett, Carmel, Calif., died at Royal Jubilee Hospital Wednesday. Death came after a short illness. He was 50.

He had spent each summer at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel with Mrs. Trevett for the last 10 years.

Deceased was Brooklyn-born, practised law in New York and in 1908 took over management of the F. W. Woolworth, New York, office. He retired in 1930 and moved to Carmel.

UNIMAK ISLAND VOLCANO POPS

SEATTLE, July 11 (CP)—Mount Shishaldin on Unimak Island, in the Aleutians about 750 miles southwest of Anchorage, erupted at 4 a.m. Thursday, the crew of a Northwest Airlines plane reported.

The plane's pilot, Fred Zimmerly of Seattle, said smoke was pouring out of the crater of the 9,372-foot peak and that flames were jumping 200 to 300 feet in the air.

BIGGER GRANTS IN LIEU OF TAX VICTORIA'S AIM

Victoria wants a bigger bite out of provincial and federal treasuries in lieu of taxation on government lands in the municipality.

A resolution proposing a bill to the Legislature to provide for "adjustments" was approved by city council at its meeting Thursday and will be forwarded to the Union of B.C. Municipalities' convention at Vernon in October.

Ald. Percy Scurrah raised the matter and said the B.N.A. Act specifically exempted provinces and the dominion from paying taxes on land within municipalities.

"We can't demand it," he said. He felt, however, that an "equitable basis for adjustment" could be reached taking into consideration the taxes paid on "similarly assessed property in the city."

He said Ontario had already started paying grants and other provinces were following the lead.

Ald. Waldo Skillings advocated full taxes not a grant.

City Rejects Alberni Plan To End Strike

City council declined to endorse a Port Alberni city council move toward settlement of the I.W.A. strike.

The resolution, together with a letter from the Victoria local of the I.W.A. asking endorsement of the Port Alberni move, were received and filed.

"The city should not interfere," said Ald. Waldo Skillings. "The government and Labor Relations Board have all the necessary machinery."

The Port Alberni council requested that Forest Industrial Relations resume negotiations with the I.W.A. in efforts to bring about a settlement of the strike.

POLICE END AFFAIR; BOY TOO YOUNG

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 11 (AP)—A 28-year-old blonde divorcee and a 17-year-old high school boy who left their Burbank, Calif., homes last May 24 professed their love today in jail.

Mrs. Virginia Letourneau and James Eldon Sherwin were arrested by police Wednesday night after a fierce struggle on a downtown street. "I'll wait from now on for you," Mrs. Letourneau cried as she was separated from the six-foot, three-inch youth at police headquarters.

They kissed each other as a newspaper photographer took their picture. Mrs. Letourneau, mother of a 10-year-old boy, has been charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, Sherwin with being a delinquent.

Victoria Insists Sister Municipalities Pay Fair Share of Costs of Clean Housekeeping

"No appeasement" on the garbage issue was Ald. Waldo Skillings' cry at Thursday's city council meeting.

By a vote of 6-3, council supported the alderman's stand to have Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt pay the full shot on garbage disposal charges levied by the city.

Council at estimates time upped the levy from 55 to 78 cents per cubic yard. Oak Bay protested. Following a meeting this week the inter-municipal committee recommended the levy be charged from October 1 instead of July 1 as originally set.

Cost to the city for the change in date of implementation was estimated at $1,000.

"Reeve Gibbs is making a fetish of saying Victoria is always trying to gouge the other municipalities," stormed Ald. Skillings. "It's not fair. We paid the increase in wages."

"It just means the city is subsidizing Oak Bay," Ald. Jim Neely, chairman of the inter-municipal committee and Ald. Percy Scurrah a member, said the move was made in the interests of better relations with the adjacent municipalities.

They felt the city should have given the municipalities advance notice of the increased rate.

"If we are ever going to have amalgamation we must work with these people and not have these continual pin pricks," said Ald. Scurrah.

In four presidential elections, Franklin D. Roosevelt rolled up 1,876 electoral votes against a combined total of 248 for his opponents.

City Towing Firm Salvages Carrier

The steel timber barge Manning No. 1, beached near Nitinat during a storm three years ago, has been salvaged by Vancouver Island Tug and Barge, and will be converted into an oil carrier.

The barge was being towed from Zeballos to Victoria when heavy seas snapped cables and drove it ashore, upside down. Salvage operations were completed Wednesday and Thursday by the tug Island Champion and a shore-based winch crew.

FIRST BALLOT WINSeventh Miner
Blast VictimGovernment, Company Open Probe
Into Cause of Glace Bay Disaster

GLACE BAY, N.S., July 11 (CP)—A seventh miner died Thursday night as government and company officials began an investigation into the second worst disaster to hit this coal-mining town in 49 years.

Even as Herbert Desmond, 49, lay dying in hospital here, two other Nova Scotia miners were killed in common accidents that make mining man's most hazardous occupation.

ONLY WITNESS

Desmond was the only man who could have told exactly what happened Wednesday when his six companions were killed in an explosion in No. 20 colliery here.

Deadly "fire damp," the miner's greatest fear, is believed to have blasted the chamber some three miles under the Atlantic. Company and union officials declined to say what caused the explosion but rescue workers indicated that a defective lamp carried by one of the victims ignited an accumulation of the gas.

Number 20 was closed 14 years ago for a 13-month safety program.

Donald MacLellan brought Desmond to safety shortly after the blast. He was working nearby and groped his way into the explosion area with a moistened cloth over his face.

Several times the gas forced him back before he located the moaning man in the flickering light of burning pit props. Desmond was removed to hospital where he died of third-degree burns and shock.

The other victims were Charles (Massey) Harris, 47; William (Billy) Blake, 60; John Gould, 30;

Pat Gabriel, 27; Buddy Bonar, 23, and Herb's brother, Bill, 45.

MINE IDLE

The mine, employing 1,200 men, was idle Thursday and will probably remain so until Monday. A formal inquiry into the accident will officially begin in a few days. Here is a reconstruction of events leading up to the explosion, as seen by rescue workers: Blake, suspecting gas in the area, sent for Harris to investigate. Harris carried a "glanny" or safety lamp whose light goes out when gas is present. It was found near the scene of the explosion, "blasted to smithereens."

Quiet mourning pervades the town of 28,000 and surrounding areas.

There will be a funeral instead of a wedding at the Blake home Saturday. His daughter Elsie arrived home from Toronto shortly before the tragedy. He was to have given her in marriage.

PREPARE FOR
MAJOR CRISISLoggers' Strike
Hits B.C. Business

VANCOUVER, July 11 (CP)—Merchants in the B.C. coast area of the woodworkers' strike are preparing for a major economic crisis unless a settlement of the 27-day-old strike is reached soon.

Here are the major effects felt on the lower mainland today as the 32,000 coast woodworkers' strike continues:

Retail Merchants Association reported storekeepers suffering loss in sales up to 30 per cent. Scores of tugboats and hundreds of their crews laid off with no logs to tow.

Vancouver's sawdust supply "very low" and the outlook for the winter "very bad."

Some smaller city laundries, dependent on sawdust and hogged fuel for their steam, threatened with shutdowns.

In a statement today the merchants association said its members were viewing the prolonged strike with "very deep concern" and urged immediate intervention by the government.

"In Vancouver sales of many lines have dropped 30 per cent and indications are the situation will worsen," the report said. The association said merchants in strike areas were refusing to accept credit obligations "under conditions that will undoubtedly grow worse."

Babs Davies in Six-Hole Lead

Defending champion Babs Davies of Vancouver holds a six-hole lead over Mrs. Peggy Harris of Oak Bay at the 23rd-hole mark of the 36-hole final for the British Columbia Women's Close Golf championship at Colwood Golf Club.

Miss Davies, who led three up at the end of the morning round, won the 19th hole with a par four, the 22nd with a par three and the 23rd when Mrs. Harris picked up after hitting her third shot into the trees.

Premier Byron Johnson today found himself in the position where he may not be able to resign next week as he had planned, to hand over the reins of government to the Social Credit party.

One of the main factors was a reverse switch in the vote counting in Point Grey riding which put A. R. Macdougall, Prog. Cons., back in as a member and put the Social Credit party's potential strength at 19 members, as compared to 18 for the C.C.F.

RECOUNTS CERTAIN

Since there are bound to be recounts in two, and possibly three, of the close ridings, the Premier is not yet able to recommend who should form the new government.

Thursday, when Social Credit candidate Thomas Bate took the second count lead in Point Grey's A ballot as C.C.F. votes were tallied, it appeared the Socreds were certain to get the most seats. Premier Johnson, according to reliable informants, proposed to hand over the government to them early next week without waiting for the last votes to be counted, because he felt it imperative that an active government should take over as soon as possible and that a Socred margin was indicated.

But in the third count in Point Grey Conservative Macdougall, drawing big strength from Liberal alternatives, forged back into the lead and was elected. It is expected the second seat in Point Grey will also go to the Conservatives.

This changed the picture from the Premier's standpoint. It is still conceivable that final counting in Burrard riding—not yet complete—or recounts, may give the C.C.F. the lead again, although this is not expected.

Today it was intimated the Premier will change his original idea. He has not made up his mind when he will submit his resignation to Lieutenant-Governor Wallace, or which party he will recommend as the new government. He will wait until all seats are decided.

The Premier's reported intention to quit right away has already come under fire from C.C.F. leader Harold Winch.

"It is absolutely unconstitutional for the Premier to make any recommendation to the Lieutenant-Governor until he knows the results from all constituencies," Mr. Winch said.

The C.C.F. leader said his protest was based on "purely constitutional" grounds.

"I'm not trying to block Social Credit or any other party. It would be equally unconstitutional for the C.C.F. to be called upon as early as next week. But if Social Credit were asked to form a government, the first man sworn in would automatically become premier. Who would that be? They haven't chosen a leader yet."

Election writs are officially returnable to the chief electoral officer by July 31, so it may well be that the premier will have to wait until then before making his move.

There are three seats still undecided. One is in Vancouver East A Ballot where Arthur Turner, C.C.F., has a commanding lead at the end of the third count, but still needs to pick up a few alternates to win on the fourth ballot.

The two Vancouver-Burrard seats were settled today, with Eric Martin and Bert Price, Social Credit, winning both.

Mrs. Laura Jamieson, C.C.F., defeated Attorney-General Wismer in Vancouver Centre.

Minnesota Swings Vote
To Stampede Delegates

CHICAGO, July 11 (AP)—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge announced today that Senator Richard Nixon of California is the choice of the Eisenhower strategy group for vice-president. He made the statement to newspapermen after a conference with a group of Republican leaders, who helped win the presidential nomination for General Eisenhower.

Nixon, 39, was elected to the senate only two years ago after two terms in the House of Representatives.

CHICAGO, July 11 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today won the Republican presidential nomination. In a dramatic climax to a fight with Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, Eisenhower crashed through to the Republican accolade on the first ballot.

On the roll call, Eisenhower first received 595 votes to 502 for Taft. But before the vote could be announced, Minnesota threw to the General 19 votes it had first given to former Governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota.

That put Eisenhower across with 614 votes. It took 604 to nominate.

Texas and other states which had split their votes then began jumping. It was a landslide in the end.

The official figures: Total 1,206 votes: General Eisenhower 845; Gen. Douglas MacArthur 4; Senator Robert Taft 289; Governor Earl Warren of California 77.

And this feuding, wrangling, 25th Republican National Convention pulled itself together into a vociferous show of unity behind the General with
